The Rowland Institute at Harvard is seeking applications for Rowland Fellowships that commence in the 2018 calendar year. We seek the best young experimentalists in energy science and engineering in the broadest sense. The Rowland Fellowship provides an opportunity to establish an independent program within the rich intellectual environment at Harvard and the surroundings.

The term of the Fellowship is for up to five years, with a start date ideally between July and September. The stipend will be upwards from $72,000 per year, depending on the candidate’s experience. Fellows must have completed their doctoral degrees prior to starting their term.

Instructions for applying to the program are to be found at the Rowland website:
